With F.M.L.

Stewart Alsop writes of "Taming the Beast" in his own objective in the last two issues of NEWSWEEK.

The "beast" is cancer, whose victims include the 56-year-old feature columnist for the newsweekly, afflicted with a yet unidentified leukemia.

Surveying his own reactions and the efficiency of medical science in treating him, Alsop explains the circumstances from the lay and medical view and asks:

"Why do the bad cells come back?"

"If we knew the answer to that one," says his doctor, a Dr. Glick, "we would know what starts a cancer in the first place, and we'd be well on the way to a cure, not of leukemia only, but of all cancers."

He was later discharged, he writes, with a diagnosis saying: "This man's blood is in bad shape, and he's got some bad cells in his marrow, but we're not sure what they are, so let's wait and see."

NOW-NOW-NOW

Alsop's objectivity on his condition is as remarkable as some of his insights into national and international politics. He somehow sees things with a detached wisdom, an attribute not altogether common among columnists and commentators in recent years, even now his abbreviated stay among us.

His station in the Fourth Estate seems founded in lineage traceable to Teddy Roosevelt, a sally in World War II with military intelligence and thousands of political columns, hundreds of magazine articles and a number of books.

NEWSWEEK finds in him a civilized arbiter and reporter whose assessments cross oceans and politics with minimum rancor.

Here, he finds in his own human frailty a unique subject, not unlike the TV coverage of the late photographer Margaret Bourke-White's treatment for Parkinson's Disease, a grim combat she recently lost after 19 years.

What we are saying is that reporters and editors worth their salt are as objective about their own misfortunes as other people's.

Their responsibility in print, or the living up to it, makes them no less human, no less limited than the objects and courses of humanity whose story they tell and interpret.

Courage is a quality that, next to love, is the absolute necessity to the human race. And sometimes, it is impossible to tell which is the greater.

Maybe Alsop or some other communicator, even this one, will someday find which is paramount.

That is, if it matters.

School trustees, in a called meeting, gave final approval to a 1971-72 school budget of $1,045,268 and set the school tax rate at $1.50 per $100 valuations, based on 25 percent of actual value. The budget shows a deficit of almost $43,000. The deficit resulted after a proposed valuations increase was postponed a year because of business conditions and the drought.

CLEARING THE RUBBLE starts in the block being torn down for Cameron's urban renewal project. So far, several buildings have been torn down and others are partly demolished. The rubble is loaded into trucks and is being used to fill in a deep ravine south of the city.

CTEDD Receives Planning Grant

Cong. W. R. Poage and Senators John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen have announced approval of a $45,388 grant to the Central Texas Economic Development District.

The grant is from the Economic Development Administration, Department of Commerce, and is for continuation of planning and administration of the economic development program in a 12 county region, including Milam County.

The Central Texas District is a liaison office between local agencies and EDA.

District Chairman Albert Hastings and other officers of the CTEDD are "elated" at the news, as it means assistance in securing business loans, public works grants, technical assistance and manpower training assistance for the 12 county area will continue.

CTEDD directors from Milam County are Judge O. B. Harden, executive director; Mayor E. A. Perrin, Ben Ford, J. L. Banks, Bassell Wilson, and George W. Hutton.

Milam Jury Finds Bryan Man Guilty

A Milam County jury found Ralph Y. Cobb of Bryan guilty of assault with intent to murder following three days of testimony in District Court.

Cobb was accused of shooting his brother, Clarence W. Cobb, on September 11, 1966, in a dispute over their late father's estate in Brazos county. Three earlier trials in Brazos County had resulted in hung juries.

It was the second time a Milam jury had heard the Cobb case. Last year a civil suit for personal injuries growing out of the shooting incident ended in a hung jury here. In that hearing Clarence W. Cobb was seeking $50,000 in actual damages and a similar amount in punitive damages. The civil case was also heard in Milam County on a change of venue from Brazos County.

Clarence Cobb was shot twice, in the side and the chest, with a .45 pistol. Testimony revealed that he and a companion were driving a small herd of cattle from his home place to a corral on adjoining land. Finding the gate wired shut, Cobb dismounted from his horse and then saw his brother, Ralph Cobb, seated in a nearby pickup.

Clarence Cobb testified that as he approached the pickup truck he saw Ralph Cobb pull a gun. He was shot as he backed away from his assailant.

Ralph Cobb was assessed a three year sentence. Formal sentencing has been set for September 17 by District Judge W. C. Wallace.

Jurors were Mrs. Adolph Kieschnick, Clarence E. Curtis, James H. Drehr, Anton Kopriva, Sr., Holmes A. Semken, Mrs. Woody Crawford, Mrs. Larry Crawford, Mrs. Larry W. Gore, D. R. Laywell, Laverne E. Weise, Mrs. Lu Nan Ogea, J. D. Miller, Jr., and Anton Cadan.

Archeologists Uncovering Ancient Jerusalem

By Michael Arkus
Reuter Correspondent

JERUSALEM

Israeli archeologists are uncovering traces of the ancient Jerusalem which Jesus knew -- a city with a vast plaza and a monumental staircase crowned by a gold-plated temple glittering in the sun.

Carrying out the largest excavations in the Holy City since its destruction by the Romans 1,900 years ago, the archeologists are proceeding at such a pace on their site around the ancient Jewish temple mount that their latest report became outdated by two major finds as soon as it went to press.

Among principal discoveries are remnants of a monumental staircase, stone fragments with traces of gold-leaf overlay, a huge stone which probably served as a look-out post for a temple priest. There was also a building full of ashes, soot and charred beams -- the first tangible evidence of the burning of the city by the Romans in 70 A.D.

The discoveries have so far borne out the eyewitness accounts of the city by the contemporary Jewish historian Flavius Josephus.

Led by Hebrew University Professor Benjamin Mazar, a team of 10 professional archeologists, workmen and volunteers first began excavations soon after Israel captured the old city of Jerusalem from Jordan in the six-day war in 1967.

They concentrated on the area near the temple mount -- now crowned by El Aqsa Mosque, Islam's third holiest shrine, and the dome of the rock -- close to the Wailing Wall, Jewry's holiest shrine and the only remaining section of the huge temple compound built by King Herod the Great.

Drastic changes have been discovered in the landscape as a result of Herod's tremendous construction work when he doubled the ancient temple area by filling in the Tyropean Valley (Cheese-makers' Valley).

The levelling-off of this large area as far as the Ophel Mount, the slope on which the Biblical King David reputedly built his royal citadel, was accomplished with huge walls founded on bedrock.

At various intervals during the dig, architectural fragments presumed to have fallen from Herod's royal stoa, described by Josephus as "a structure more noteworthy than any under the sun," have been found among the debris.

'FIREY SLENDOR'

Four of the fragments were found with traces of gold-leaf overlay, bringing to mind Josephus' mention of the gold-plating which covered the exterior of the temple and which "at the first rising of the sun reflected back a very fiery splendor."

In a section close to the south-western corner of the compound, part of a Herodian street paved with large, squared flagstones, with flights of steps rising to the east, was uncovered.

The street was entirely smothered in debris from the destruction of the temple. It was bordered on its south side by a wall, beyond which there was a plaza, sections of which served as a gathering place for the crowds of pilgrims coming to Jerusalem to celebrate the various festivals.

About 165 yards away from the temple mount, the archeologists uncovered the gutted ruins of a building destroyed by the Romans when the Emperor Titus captured the city in 70 A.D.

The building, apparently workshops, were full of ashes, soot, charred beams and stones burned red and black. Three ovens were uncovered in the corner of one room.

EIGHT TON STONE
Early this year the archeologists unearthed a massive eight-ton stone lying in the debris along the Herodian street and all signs indicate that it formed a corner parapet of the temple walls themselves.

The stone, which has a niche large enough to hold a man, bears a Hebrew inscription, "Lebet Hatekiya" (belonging to the place of the trumpet blowing).

In its original position, high on the temple wall, it would have afforded a magnificent view of ancient Jerusalem. The archeologists also believe it is the stone mentioned by Josephus from which a priest signalled by trumpet blast the approach and the close of the Sabbath.

An even more recent find is a monumental staircase leading up to the "double gate". This and the "triple gate" served pilgrims going up to the temple.

They are 87 yards apart and are both sealed.

Beneath the double gate, part of a tunnel was found hewn into the bedrock. The archeologists believe it allowed priestly access to the inner temple area.

The Jewish rabbinical work, The Mishna, speaks of a special lamp-lit underground route which the priests would take.

The rock-cut tunnel is sufficiently high for a man to stand up and has soot-blackened niches along both walls.

Area Schools Enroll 4,321

Milam County schools have enrolled about 4,321 students, according to figures released by superintendents. The figure is below last year's enrollment of 4,375.

Cameron's enrollment as of Friday morning was 1,661, up 57 over last year.

Ben Milam School, with kindergarten, first, and second grade, had an enrollment of 294; Ada Henderson third through fifth grades, 395; Cameron Junior High, 430; Yoe High, 501; and special education, 41.

Rockdale's enrollment totals 1,649, with 534 in high school; 428 in junior high; and 687 in elementary, including kindergarten and special education.

Milano Schools reached the 307 mark, with 68 in grades 1-3; 26 each in 4th, 5th, 6th, and 8th grades and 20 in 7th; and 115 in high school.

There were 474 students enrolled at Thorndale on the first day of school with about 20 more expected.

Buckholts total enrollment was 132 for all 12 grades. Gause with a six grade school enrolled 56, and Maysfield, 42.

Other area schools:

Rosebud - Lott counted an enrollment of 1,088, an increase of 12 over last year.

Rogers has a total enrollment of 579, with 263 in grades 1-5; 150 in junior high; and 166 in high school.

DOVE HUNTERS FIND GAME SCATTERED

An influx of dove hunters was expected to be seen in Milam County over the Labor Day weekend but game may be scarce, according to Game Management Officer Dale Moore.

He said the doves are scattered or in small pockets and are moving around so the harvest may be scant for some hunters.

Hunters from the south were expected to come up into the northern zone, as dove season doesn't open in the south zone until Sept. 25.

Moore said a dove census earlier in the year showed a "fair" population of doves in Milam.

He said the rains have also had an effect on the dove movements, causing them to stay scattered around instead of congregating at stock tanks for water.

Moore reminded hunters that guns must remain plugged for migratory birds, which include doves, and also that it is unlawful to hunt from cars or discharge weapons on any public road.

Shooting hours are from noon to sunset each day and bag limit is 10 doves. A hunting license is not required to hunt in the county of residence.

Registration Of Brands Underway

Re-registering of brands and marks began Monday in County Clerk Wayne Wieser's office and so far a number of persons had their brands and marks on file.

The re-registering of cattle brands is required under a new state law and all brands and marks must be renewed within six months.

Then, according to the state law, the brands must be renewed every 10 years.

Cost of re-registering is $2 for each mark or brand.

'Them And Us'....

During the 1960s, political and civil rights leaders were shot down in this country. In the 1970s, will they be talked down?

It would not seem to matter what the President does, or what Congress does, or what anyone in authority (as opposed to power, which implies fear) does, they come to near naught in approval. Two of the boldest moves in latter 20th Century have been generally endorsed by citizenry looking for direction and leadership. And yet, the leadership of unions is carping about the President's effort to contain inflation, while the rank and file sees the need. This implies the imposition of power against authority when authority is functioning in the public interest.

It could also be interpreted "as keeping the faith", politically. But if laissez-faire capitalism is dead, is not the 19th Century labor premise gone with it? The premise that capital only wishes to exploit the workingman, who now generally is at least a small capitalist with home ownership, two-car auto ownership, offspring college educated, a boat in the garage, a retirement plan, a hospitalization plan, et al?

Is it not becoming a fact that a technician or union factory job is better paid or at least as well paid as college graduates in teaching, office work, company sales, even, in some cases, middle management?

Is it not a possibility that our brightest people, who necessarily must risk the competition of college prep and rigors of career development may be sidelined by the organized "good life"?

On the other hand, conservatives are concerned about the President's realism in planning to go to Peking. But is it not time almost one-third of the world's population be acknowledged as present among a world of nations?

What is, is. If that sounds like Gertrude Stein's famous "a rose is a rose is a rose", a fact as big as Mainland China and a problem as menacing as inflation is and is and is. And they must be dealt with in terms of responses of the 1970s, as opposed to 1920 responses to domestic economics and 1950 responses to international problems.

Severe is the danger that a diminished dollar and liberal isolationism are reducing the U.S. to a second-class position in world power structure. Our will to continue as a world power turned in Vietnam.

Our will to maintain a lead in reorganizing the economic and political world community must respond to the present needs with present solutions. That is, if we are to avoid the eclipse of a British Empire or Roman Empire, when this nation has led the world for only two decades with a minimum of imperialism and a maximum of idealism.

A lot of people are decrying the change in domestic attitudes toward social and cultural values, Victorianism and cherished sentiments of the 19th Century. And a lot of people would have us solve near-21st Century problems with the same institutions which, in terms of a space age, are light years in arrears. They would have us void the potential of monumental chaos with a whisper.

The Roman Empire is no more. The Ming Dynasty is no more. The French, Dutch, Spanish, German and British Empires are no more. Alexander's great conquests did not survive his death. Genghis Kahn, the Crusades, the Inquisition, the New World are history.

We are a band of nations around a small habitable orb glistening in the energy of a sun infinitesimal in comparison to even low-intensity stars our astronomers easily view in earth telescopes.

If we don't learn to live together as people and nations, the ideologies of the past, the proud histories of the past will surely be lost, like Atlantis.

"Route, rally, route," wrote Toynbee in his great study of civilizations, tracing the demise of about 20. He found only two left in that study, other than arrested or isolated cultures, "them (the communist monoliths) and us".

If we follow historic man's responses, even as recently as the 1940s, we won't be "Red or dead." We won't be!

If we have lost our sense of expansionist mission on earth, perhaps the United States can persist in humanizing the earth and populating a region of space.

Then, at least, "them" will be the elements and "us" will be earthlings who have outgrown the luxury of partitioning continents and exploiting subdivisions.

Kubiak Seeks Repeal Of Farm Vehicle Law

State Rep. Dan Kubiak has requested Gov. Preston Smith to submit for consideration during the special session the repeal of certain sections of Senate Bill 183, commonly called "the rules of the road."

The sections deal with the installation of signal lights on all trailers and motor vehicles.

tail lights and reflectors, stop lights and turn signals, and brakes on all trailers not registered as farm vehicles.

These sections of the bill make it prohibitive for the average farmer and rancher to comply with and would require spending over $100 per vehicle to comply."

Kubiak said. He added that he has requested Col. Wilson Speir of the Department of Public Safety to waive the requirements until the legislature can repeal the provisions.

Seafood Good For Everyone

Who needs seafood? Everyone, according to Ann Holden, seafood marketing specialist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Seafood is an excellent source of protein, vitamins and minerals for everyone, regardless of the consumer's age.

According to Mrs. Holden, most young persons have few dietary problems and will choose fish on its merits as a tasty dish.

Older persons with chewing or digestive difficulties find seafood a wise choice because the relatively small amounts of connective tissue make the flesh tender.

These same advantages benefit children whose teeth aren't fully developed. And by buying fish fillets, mothers can eliminate the hazard of bones in the fish.

Fish is low in sodium, fat, cholesterol and calories. Anyone on a diet with these restrictions can enjoy fish.

Fish is also an excellent food for those on a high protein diet.

The following is an excellent recipe for your family. For more fish recipes write: Seafood Recipes, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

Tippit's Tips

Effective September 1, 1971 the law concerning Vehicles Turning Left will be changed and will apply to drivers turning left into an alley, private road or driveway.

"The driver of a vehicle intending to turn to the left within an intersection or into an alley, private road or a driveway, shall yield the right-of-way to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction which is within the intersection or so close thereto as to constitute an immediate hazard."

Reuter Correspondent

VANCOUVER, B.C. has been practiced here for the past 40 years by a busy 70-year-old osteopath. Dr. Harold S. Saita, a Canadian of Japanese extraction, is believed to be one of the few acupuncture practitioners in North America. He uses acupuncture to relieve tensions and pain and to promote rapid recovery. Acupuncture is the technique used recently on New York Times columnist James Reston during an appendectomy operation in Peking. It was devised at least 1,000 years ago by the Chinese and spread to Japan. It involves the sticking of very fine needles into points in the body, usually between nerves and muscles, to release pressure causing tensions and discomfort. Nobody knows how or why acupuncture works.

Dr. Saita stresses that he usually enters a case only after regular medical treatment has been given by a doctor. The doctor then refers the patient to Dr. Saita.

Some, however, come on their own.

The treatment begins when Dr. Saita determines which meridian or area of the nervous system is related to the patient's complaint. He then uses an instrument called Ishikawa's Electro-dermometer to determine if the area is "over active" or "under active."

On a chart of the human body he finds out which of the 365 acupuncture points on each side of the body to work on. Dr. Saita then runs an electric roller gently over the area until the exact point to be treated shows up on the electrodermometer.

Then he pushes a slim silver needle into the point and the relieving process is said to begin.

The needle works either to soothe an overactive nerve or stimulate one that is under active, he says. The needle goes no more than a quarter of an inch into the skin and the patient hardly feels anything.

Dr. Saita says the treatment works especially well with patients suffering from arthritis, headaches (especially migraines), convulsions, lethargy, cholic, stomach and heart trouble.

He believes that as the world gets more and more complex and tensions build up, people will turn more and more to acupuncture for relief.

Dr. Saita has lectured on the art in universities and finds growing interest in it among doctors.

"I'm sure it's a coming thing in medical practice," he said.

Dr. Saita was born in Cloverdale, near here. At the age of 10 he went to Japan after his father died. He lived with a medical family and learned acupuncture in a doctor's office, receiving a diploma in 1920.

Later he qualified for a degree in osteopathy in the United States.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Service Is Key To Hefley-Stedman Success

Hefley-Stedman Motor Company, a leader in auto sales and service for more than 50 years, combines old time friendly service with up-to-date knowledge of the automobile business. The auto dealership first opened in the corner building across from the Cameron Post Office. In 1925 they moved into more spacious quarters at the present location, 115 N. Houston. Further expansion included a used car corner at Central and 2nd streets and parking facilities opposite.

H. H. Stedman, owner of the local Ford - Mercury dealership, said "We have built our business on service." Ford Motor Company recognized this when they presented him with a large plaque engraved: "In recognition of his outstanding record in providing the highest quality of service throughout his organization for the complete satisfaction of his customers."

Behind the "highest quality of service" are Hefley-Stedman Motor Company employees who have a combined work record of more than 110 years with the firm. Alvin Meyer, office manager, leads the list with 30 years at the local auto agency. In the Parts Department are Vernon Reimer, 20 years with Hefley-Stedman Motor Co., and Dana Monroe, 14 years.

Service Department personnel include Louis Vrazel, foreman, 15 years at Hefley-Stedman; Simon Rangel, 18 years; Edward Dohnalik, Steve Basonic and Richard Vega.

In the Sales Department are Sam Jones, who has many years experience in auto sales including 5 years at Hefley-Stedman, and Dean White, a veteran of 10 years experience in auto sales.

Five or six current model Fords and Mercurys are always on display in the main showroom, however the shiny new autos often take a back seat in attention to a 1930 Model A Ford, also displayed in the showroom.

Stedman asserts that the Model A thus proves a Ford is built to last. The one-owner car was purchased in Denton and driven by Miss Mary Kelse, a teacher at Maysfield, until her death in 1962. Since that time it has been an attraction for antique car enthusiasts and has added interest to local parades.

Stedman points out that he has quite a number of new and used cars in stock and that is the only one that isn't for sale.

In addition to new model cars, ranging in price and size from the popular Pinto to the deluxe LTD Limited, the Hefley-Stedman Motor Company maintains a large stock of quality used cars priced to please the most careful buyer.

All late model used cars carry a 30 day guarantee, Stedman said.

Milam Auto Supply Stocks Complete Line Of Vehicle Parts

A complete, modern autoparts center which also has many truck and tractor parts is what Milam Auto Supply, Inc., has become in less than four years.

Owned by corporate partners Jerry Mikula, Ray Goeke and Melvin Provasek, who are also active in its management, Milam Auto Supply is a wholesale center for just about anything that makes an auto run.

And retail specialties like power tools by Black & Decker and Chicago Pneumatic, trailer hitch parts and a line of engine chemicals and compounds make Milam Auto Supply a unique center.

The firm stocks a complete line of standard auto and truck parts for domestic vehicles of most any make and model.

Daily orders are sent to base supply houses each morning at 11. If a part or parts is needed the same day, special delivery by bus can have the part back to the customer that same day.

A service like this is indispensable to mechanics throughout the Milam area and to motorists, particularly having auto work done on a holiday or weekend breakdown.

This kind of service is why Milam Auto Supply, Inc., is growing. Orders for special and foreign auto parts is only part of the story.

It takes the teamwork clearly established by Goeke, Mikula and Provasek. They are assisted by Mrs. Mary Harper, Bookkeeper, and Bill Goeke and Chuck Krennek. Some special machine shop work is available for valve grinding and brake shoes as well as a wide display of auto hand tools for the amateur or professional mechanic.

Brand name parts are standard in Milam Auto Supply, including Champion, Auto-Lite, A.C. Delco, Monroe Shocks, Gates V-belts and brands galore in oil and air filters, and vital engine parts.

Milam Auto's convenient location, a 4,000 square foot display and counter building at 124 North Houston, is across from Cameron Post Office. The operation opened and grew there in April, 1967.

The firm will continue to grow, because Milam Auto Supply owners, managers and employees are interested in serving the professionals who service autos, tractors and trucks throughout the Milam area.

RICHTER - In loving memory of our dear son Lawrence H. Richter, who served in the U. S. Navy during W. W. II and passed away September 22, 1969.

The heartaches we have shared these passing years; with your passing it seems a part of our life was buried with you darling. And deep in our hearts lies a picture more precious than silver or gold. It is a picture of our darling son Lawrence. We miss you more and more each day. God only knows the aches we bear.
